However, the benefits of the scheme have not yet been deposited in their bank accounts, such women should immediately ensure that their bank accounts are linked with Aadhaar card (Aadhaar seeded) and if Aadhaar is not linked, they should go to the concerned bank and take the process of linking the bank account with Aadhaar card immediately, Navi Mumbai Municipal Corporation appealed.

Bombay High Court Halts Disqualification of Co-op Society Member for Having Three Children

MUMBAI, 28TH SEPTEMBER 2024

In a dramatic turn of events, the Bombay High Court has stepped in to block the disqualification of Mr. Ramchandra Navlu Zore, a Managing Committee Member of the Galaxy Complex Co-operative Housing Society Ltd. in Parel, who was disqualified for having more than two children. The interim stay, granted by Hon'ble Justice R. M. Joshi, allows Mr. Zore to retain his position until the final hearing of Writ Petition No. 12266 of 2024, setting the stage for a high-stakes legal showdown.

The controversy erupted when Mr. Zore, who was elected to serve a five-year

'Do You Know Full Form Of MSP': Amit Shah Slams Rahul Gandhi Over Farmers' Issue In Haryana

■ REWARI, (AGENCIES):

Union Home Minister Amit Shah trained his guns on Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, asking if he knew the full form of MSP as he underlined that the BJP government in Haryana was procuring 24 crops at the minimum support price.Addressing a poll rally here, Shah also attacked the Congress on the issue of corruption and reservation. Slamming the Congress on farmers' issue, he said some NGO has told Rahul 'baba' that by saying MSP (minimum support price) he will get votes."Rahul baba, do you know full form of MSP. Which crop is of Kharif, which one is of Rabi, do you know," he asked.Shah said the BJP government in Haryana is procuring 24 crops at MSP. "Let Congress leaders in Haryana tell which Congress-ruled state procures as many crops," he said."How many crops bought at MSP in Karnataka and Telangana," he asked.During Congress rule, paddy was procured at Rs 1300 per quintal, now it is Rs 2300 and if you elect BJP government in Haryana, we will procure paddy at Rs 3,100 (per quintal), he said.Further attacking the Congress, Shah said it was the NarendraModi government which fulfilled the long pending demand of One Rank One Pension.Shah said the BJP undertook equitable development in Haryana and corruption has finished in the last 10 years. Congress governments used to run on the basis of cut, commission and corruption while dealers, dalals (middlemen) and 'damads' used to rule. Under BJP government, there are no dealers, 'dalals' while there is no question of 'damad'," the senior BJP leader said.Haryana goes to polls on October 5 and the results will be declared on October 8.

Not Eknath Shinde, We Are Fighting The BJP: Sena UBT's Aaditya Thackeray At Town Hall

■ MUMBAI, ABHISHEK PODDAR:

Aaditya Thackeray, Shiv SenaUddhav Balasaheb Thackeray (UBT) leader at Town Hall on Friday, said his faction of the party was fighting for Maharashtra as the state hasn't got much in the past two years of the BharatiyaJanata Party-led government. Thackeray was speaking at a session titled 'Matoshree to Prove Its Might?' "It is not a personal fight...we are fighting for Maharashtra. The state has not achieved anything in the past two years. They are only looting Maharashtra...The government installed here is anti-Constitutional. They key question to ask is what has Maharashtra achieved?... The MVA has won every election that has gone to the people. The BJP is scared of elections."When asked about the Supreme Court's stance on his claim that the government was unconstitutional, Thackeray said, "The SC may take 30-40 years to deliver justice! The coastal road, due by December 2023, remains unfinished under the 'illegal CM'... We planned bike tracks and green space — these delays are unacceptable!"Commenting on Fadnavis's remark that his party split due to his father Uddhav Thackeray's ambitions for him, Thackeray said, "What is DevendraFadnavis's standing in his own party? The top five leaders of the BJP in Maharashtra are not from the BJP. They are 2019 and 2020 imports. The CM is from the Gaddar gang...Real BJP karyakartas are not getting anything because of Fadnavis's own power struggle...The Shinde gang is not my aim...My fight is with the BJP. They broke other parties. They are dividing India and looting Maharashtra."He added that the Sena did not expand their base in other states because of their alliance with the BJP. "We respect our allies."Thackeray further questioned the BJP: "Why are we playing cricket with Bangladesh when Hindus are being attacked there?...Uddhav Thackeray led Maharashtra during Covid, he is the one who granted loan waivers...The BJP went back on its promise to us... People of Maharashtra know whom to vote for."On the infrastructure development in the state, he said, "By the time our government was toppled, 82% work on the AtalSetu was completed. They stalled it for three months for elections. Every project Shinde has touched has been delayed."

Diwali-Chhath Puja 2024: 12,500 General Coaches to be Added in Special Trains This Festive Season

■ NEW DELHI, (AGENCIES):

Despite the presence of dozens of trains running from Delhi to Bihar, securing a confirmed seat during festivals remains a constant challenge. Thousands of people travel to Bihar during Diwali and Chhath Puja, prompting Indian Railways to make special arrangements. On Friday, Union Railway Minister AshwiniVaishnav announced that general coaches will be added to 108 trains during the festive season.Considering the passengers' convenience during festive season, the Railways has decided to increase the number of general coaches in 108 trains. Vaishnav stated on Friday that a provision of 12,500 general coaches has been made for special trains during Chhath Puja and Diwali. A significant number of Biharis travel home from Delhi and other parts of the country during these festivals, leading to shortage of trains, buses, and flights.As of now,

5,975 trains have been notified for the financial year 2024-25. With this decision of Indian Railways, it is estimated that around 1 crore passengers will be able to return home during the festive season.In the previous financial year (2023-24), a total of 4,429 special trains were operated during the festive period. Over a thousand more trains have been planned for this year compared to last year.All zones of Indian Railways have released a list of special trains to be operated during Diwali and Chhath. The Northern Railway will run the highest number of trains, with 130 planned, while the SCR zone has a plan for 104 special trains. The ECR zone will run 99 trains. The Indian Railways has decided to operate special trains from all zones to ensure a smooth journey for passengers.

FIR Registered Against Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman Over Electoral Bonds 'Extortion'

■ BENGALURU, (AGENCIES):

A case has been registered against Union Finance Minister NirmalaSitharaman and others, on the orders of a Bengaluru Special Court, over allegations of extortion through the now-scrapped electoral bonds scheme. The complaint was filed by petitioner Adarshlyer, accusing Sitharaman and others of orchestrating an extortion racket under the guise of electoral bonds.The development came after a special court in Bengaluru directed local police to file an FIR against Sitharaman, who is a RajyaSabha member from Karnataka.The complainant, Adarshlyer from JanaadhikaraSangharshaSanghatane (JSS), has alleged that Sitharaman and her department orchestrated extortion through electoral bonds. The Special Court for People's Representatives, after reviewing the case, ordered the Tilak Nagar police station to register an FIR."Our allegation is that NirmalaSitharaman is misusing her position as finance minister to benefit her party, which is ruling at the Centre. That is where extortion comes into the picture," lyer told .He described the electoral bond scheme as a scam that the entire nation was exposed to, emphasising that their complaints and evidence demonstrate a clear-cut case of extortion and corruption by the union minister and her BJP colleagues in Karnataka as well.lyer further claimed that data uploaded by the State Bank of India (SBI) clearly shows how the extortion took place. "We have filed 15 to 16 complaints at various police stations, but right now we are following up on only one—the one where the court has directed that an FIR be filed at Tilak Nagar Police Station against NirmalaSitharaman," lyertold.The Supreme Court declaredelectoral bondsunconstitutional in February 2024. The scheme allegedly enabled political parties to receive large sums of money without disclosing the identity of donors, raising concerns about corporate influence in politics.The complaint, originally submitted by JSP in April 2024 at the 42nd

ACMM Court in Bengaluru, named several prominent politicians and officials, including Sitharaman. Among others named are BJP national president JP Nadda, former BJP Karnataka president Nalin Kumar Kateel, BY Vijayendra, and representatives from the ED. The complaint alleges that they conspired to extort funds through electoral bonds by leveraging raids conducted by them.Defending his colleague Sitharaman, union minister HD Kumaraswamy countered Karnataka chief minister Siddaramaiah's demand that she should resign. The CM himself has been facing demands to step down after a trial court ordered filing of charges in connection with the alleged Mysuru Urban Development Authority, or MUDA, land scam."Why should she resign if the electoral bond funds didn't go into her personal account? They've asked for an FIR to be filed, but that doesn't mean she is guilty," Kumaraswamy said.

Fake Narrative, Vote Jihad Hurt BJP's LokSabha Show, Maharashtra Polls Are Different: Fadnavis At Town Hall

■ MUMBAI, SURESH DHERE:

Maharashtra Deputy Chief Minister DevendraFadnavis on Friday blamed "fake narrative" by the Opposition and "vote jihad" for the BharatiyaJanata Party's (BJP) poor show in the recent LokSabha elections, adding that the issues have been fixed and the "ground reality is different" ahead of the state Assembly elections. Speaking at Town Hall, Fadnavis said, "In the LokSabha election results, BJP-led Mahayuti's vote share was 43.6%, while the opposition's Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA) secured 43.9%. While the difference was small, it had a major impact on the number of seats."Elaborating further, he said, "The fake narrative of the changing of the Constitution and reservation percolated. We saw a vote jihad in Maharashtra. In DhuleLokSabha seat, in five of the six assembly seats, we were ahead by 1.9 lakh votes. In Malegaon Madhya, we lost by 1,94,000, a gap of 4,000 votes. There was a revengeful voting. Fear was being put in the minds of the minorities. We undermined it. We did not think they would come together and vote. We have fixed it now. Today the situation on ground is different. Even minorities know that polarisation was done.

People are seeing our schemes. In Mumbai, look at Metros, coastal road or AtalSetu or even in rural areas... The narrative is in our favour."The narrative was run in 2014 and 2019 too. It didn't work then, so we did not reply to it effectively. Marathwada saw some impact, but overall the Maratha vote is with us. Our 43.6% is proof of that. Post poll analysis also shows that 43-46 per cent Marathas are with us. Our SC and ST votes were impacted. This won't happen in the Vidhan Sabha elections."About the plans for Assembly elections, Fadnavis said, "We have agreed on 200 seats. We don't have too many differences."

term (2022-23 to 2027-28), was removed from his role on 31st May 2024 following a complaint alleging he breached the Maharashtra Co-operative Societies Act, which disqualifies members with more than two children. After his appeal to the Deputy Registrar and Divisional Joint Registrar was dismissed, he took his fight to the Bombay High Court.

Adv. Manoj Jaiswal, representing Mr. Zore, argued vigorously that the disqualification was not only unfair but also legally unsound. He pointed out that the Maharashtra Co-operative Societies Act specifically exempts housing societies from the application of Section 73CA(1)(vii). He further highlighted that the disqualification infringed upon Mr. Zore's fundamental rights under Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution, branding the orders as arbitrary and a blatant disregard for natural justice.

After a comprehensive hearing on 27th September 2024, Justice R. M. Joshi recognized the merits of Mr. Zore's case and granted a stay on the disqualification until 19th November 2024. This decision provides temporary relief for Mr. Zore and shines a spotlight on the broader implications of the case, raising questions about how the law is applied to co-operative societies and their members.

Bhadohi:
The appreciation of Bhadohi District Magistrate Mr. Vishal Singh has become a topic of discussion among the people in Bhadohi district. People believe that the District Magistrate of Bhadohi takes cognizance of every small and big problem, a living example of which is the illegal house built on the pond by Bhadohi SP MLA Zahid Beg. After the news was published in the News Hub newspaper, he immediately took cognizance of it and became prompt to take action by conducting an investigation, this is being considered a good step and is also being appreciated. People of the district believe that if there is a DM then he should be like Vishal Singh. Bhadohi is fortunate to have such a DM that when poor, helpless, middle class or helpless people belonging to any caste come to him, he leaves aside his official work and understands the pain of the aggrieved person very well and after talking in a very simple manner, immediately directs the officials of the concerned department and orders them to resolve the matter and the matter gets resolved. Not only this, when District Magistrate Vishal Singh came to Bhadohi district, people did not expect that District Magistrate Bhadohi would be able to leave a distinct identity in the hearts of the people of the district in such a short time, but what happened is that today whether he is at his residence or at the headquarters office, if any oppressed, helpless, destitute complainant comes with his complaint, then leaving aside all the work, he immediately listens to the complaint of that complainant without any discrimination. It is seen that he keeps a sharp eye on every department of the district and keeps reprimanding the concerned officials of that department for negligence. DM Vishal Singh says that if any aggrieved person goes to the concerned officer of any district with his grievance, then behave well and listen to him and dispose of his application promptly. It is also being seen that the people and public representatives of Bhadohi district are given equal respect and no discrimination of any kind is made.

A worker laying the tower net died due to electric shock,

Five of the people working together got burnt
Work of installing mobile tower was going on by Usha Interaction Company

Bhadohi, Dhananjay Rai:
45-year-old Ramachal, a resident of Pehlada village of Matara police station in Bahraich district, died due to electric shock while laying iron mesh in a pit for a mobile tower near Ghosia police post of AuraiKotwali last night. Manoj, Aman, Sandeep, Premnath and Durga Prasad, who were working with him, got burnt. With the help of local people, all were brought to Trauma CenterAurai. The injured are being treated here. The police reached the spot, took the bodies in their custody and informed their families. All the injured are residents of Pahlada village of Bahraich district. The work of installing a mobile tower is going on by Usha Interaction Company near the police post in Ghosia Nagar. The workers were digging a pit to make the base of the tower and laying a net of iron rods in it. Ramachal and Manoj were in the pit, Aman, Sandeep, Premnath and Durga Prasad were on the ground above the pit and watching the net. Meanwhile, when the two lifted the net to set it in the pit, it touched the electric wire passing above. Due to this, all the four standing above the pit fell away due to electric shock. State-of-the-art system ready for composting from waste of societies

Launched at Godrej Emerald Society in Ghodbunder

Thane, (Representative):

Under the Swachh Bharat Abhiyan of the Government of India, orders have now been given to the local self-government bodies that the waste in the society should be disposed of by the society itself. Therefore, now most of the societies have started their own waste collection centers and a sophisticated composting system has been installed in Emerald Society on Ghodbunder Road in Thane. Every day 1 ton of fertilizer is being produced from this project and this fertilizer is being used in pots by the societies. Godrej Emerald, a society in Ghodbunder, has taken a positive step to stop environmental degradation by purchasing this project. The project is being handled by the company Amalgus and the residents of GoudrejErold believe that other societies in the vicinity can benefit from this scheme. A waste-to-waste composting project has recently been installed at Godrej Emerald Society in Thane. Due to the efforts of Godrej Emerald Society President Dadasaheb Gawli, Secretary Yogesh Chaudhary, Treasurer TejinderWahi, efforts were made to dispose of the waste in the society and make fertilizer from it. Accordingly, this project has been successfully launched by implementing the staff system in the waste to fertilizer production system through AkshayKoli'sAmalgus Company. In order to participate in the cleanliness campaign of the Government of India, a state-of-the-art system is being maintained through the company Amalgus to collect the waste from the society, prepare fertilizer from it and use it for the trees in the society to protect the environment. It was launched recently. From this waste, 1 tonne of waste per day is collected and processed in the composting plant. The workers working on this project are carrying out this process using even safety equipment to separate the plastic and other unnecessary components from the waste and include the material required for the fertilizer project. Apart from the society, the fertilizer produced in this fertilizer project is also supplied to the trees planted on both sides of the road by the Thane Municipal Corporation. AkshayKoli, manager of Amalgus, expressed optimism that if other societies in Thane also start this project in their societies, the problem of waste disposal will be solved and the pressure on the dumping grounds outside the city will be reduced.

The body of a girl was found hanging from a noose on the second floor of Jeevan Pratima Clinic

Bhadohi, Dhananjay Rai:
On Saturday morning, the body of an 18-year-old girl was found hanging from a noose in a room on the second floor of Jeevan Pratima Clinic located at MullaTalab on Station Road in Bhadohi local Kotwali area under suspicious circumstances. Police reached the spot as soon as they received the information and after investigation, took the body in their custody and sent it for post-mortem. Uday Shankar Saroj, a resident of DudwaKukrauthi village of Kotwali area, works in Mumbai. While his wife Sumitra Devi lives with her three daughters on the second floor of JeevanPratima Clinic located on Station Road MullaTalab in the city. She also works in the same clinic. In the morning, the sound of crying was coming from inside the clinic. When people passing by went inside and looked, they understood the matter. The police was informed about it. The body of the girl was hanging from a noose in the room. While her feet were touching the ground. However, after seeing it, the matter seemed suspicious. However, as soon as the incident was known, a huge crowd gathered at the spot. As it was a few steps away from the police station, Inspector-in-charge Ashwani Kumar Tripathi reached the spot with his companions. The police reached the spot and started investigating. Meanwhile, the area officer Ajay Kumar Chauhan also reached the spot. The police took the body into custody and sent it for post-mortem. Now it will be clear only after the post-mortem report comes whether the girl committed suicide or she was murdered. If she has committed suicide then for what reason? This will become clear in the police investigation. However, after the incident, the deceased's mother Sumitra Devi and her two younger sisters Radhika and Sarmadhi were inconsolable and kept crying. The police have informed the deceased's father, who lives in Mumbai, about the incident.

UP Sets Up Special Squad Amid Adulteration Complaints to Ensure Restaurants Serve Hygienic Food

Lucknow, Ashok Singh:
A special squad of the Food Safety and Drug Administration (FSDA), UP Police, and administrative officers will now ensure that only hygienically prepared food is served in Uttar Pradesh's restaurants. The squad will also make sure that the details of the food and names of the restaurant/eatery owner are displayed in bold and the food is prepared and served under CCTV surveillance. The move is part of the UP government's latest food-safety guidelines introduced to curb incidents of food adulteration. The fresh guidelines were welcomed by UP's restaurateurs and eatery owners, who are now preparing to implement the new rules. Of late, the state has witnessed a spurt in instances where human waste, including saliva and urine, was mixed with food and served. Officials with the UP government said it was the recent instances which prompted the state government to set fresh guidelines regarding preparation and serving of food. "Recent reports from across the country have revealed cases of food items such as juice, dal, and roti being adulterated with human waste, inedible, or filthy substances. These actions are atrocious and pose a grave threat to public health," a UP government statement said while quoting UP Chief Minister Yogi

Adityanath, who recently held a high-profile meeting with top-level government officials, including from the FSDA. "Such malicious practices are completely unacceptable. And to prevent such occurrences in UP, concrete measures must be put in place to ensure food safety and protect the health of the common man," the chief minister said. Recently, a juice vendor in Ghaziabad was arrested on charges of mixing urine in the juices he served. Similarly, on September 12, a video showing a teenager spitting on rotis while preparing them at an eatery in Saharanpur district went viral on social media, leading to the arrest of the facility's owner. Referring to such incidents, the UP CM also gave instructions for a thorough investigation and verification of all hotels, dhabas, restaurants, and related establishments in the state. Besides, the CM has also given instructions to amend the rules as per the need while ensuring the safety of the general public. "Dhabas, restaurants, and food establishments should be thoroughly inspected, with police verification of all employees. Necessary amendments should also be made to the Food Safety and Standards Act to ensure the purity and sanctity of food items," the statement further stated.

The country's first advocate academy and research center will be a badge of honor for the judiciary - Justice Bhushan Gavai

Thane:-

Justice Mr.BhushanGavai said that the executive, legislative and judiciary systems are complementary and supporting each other. Everyone in the judiciary should strive to make this system more efficient. With the cooperation of Maharashtra Government, the construction of Advocate Academy and Research Center will be completed soon.Law universities are being established in Nagpur, Aurangabad and Mumbai in the state with the cooperation of the government. The work of Law University at Nagpur has been completed and its campus has become a world-class campus. The work of Mumbai Law University is also going to start soon.Thanking the government for speeding up the process of allocating seats for this academy, he added that the decision to establish new benches at various places will be helpful to the judiciary. Dr. Bharat Ratna, architect of the Indian Constitution, established courts in rural areas like M a n d a n g a d . BabasahebAmbedkar's work has been honored in a true sense.Hesaid, we all should strive to get justice for the common people of this country in time. Judiciary has recognized social, economic and political justice. For that purpose, we should work in the field of justice. It is the moral responsibility of all of us to eliminate social and economic inequality.The role of social advocates is very important to build a healthy and capable society. Stating that this academy will play an important role in producing excellent lawyers, Justice Mr.Gavai appealed to this academy to produce lawyers who create social and economic revolution, and eminent lawyers to contribute their knowledge in this academy.Speaking on the occasion, Deputy Chief Minister DevendraFadnavis said that he is definitely happy that the country's first advocate academy is being implemented in Maharashtra. Congratulations to Maharashtra and Goa Bar Council for this. The government has provided space for this academy. There is no doubt that the academy will be useful for the society and also for the government. Through this academy, good work will be done in the field of justice. This academy will definitely help in making good laws.Hesaid, the field of justice is changing rapidly. The use of modern technology has started in this field as well. In the time of Kovid, the great work of online justice was done by the initiative of Hon'ble Supreme Court. Hence transparency in this sector increased. Recently the foundation stone of the High Court building was laid and today the foundation stone of the Advocate Academy and Research Center was also completed. Educational complexes like Dr. DY PatilVidyanagar inspire and encourage studies. In recent times Learn...Unlearn.. Relearn..Forget and learn again... this modern way of studying is taking root everywhere. In these changing times, this kind of academy will definitely be useful for the justice sector.Deputy Chief Minister Mr.Fadnavis will try to amend the Advocate Act by announcing a fund of 10 crore rupees from the government for this academy. He expressed his belief that the academy would definitely do good work by saying that the proposal to provide scholarship for the new lawyers coming in this field is under consideration. Academy should become world famous..!Industry Minister UdaySamant. While expressing his thoughts on the occasion, Industries Minister UdaySamant wished this academy to become world famous.He said, a good building of the first advocate academy and research center in the country and in Maharashtra is being prepared in our Maharashtra. This is a very good job. This program is very important for all lawyers in Maharashtra. All kinds of cooperation will be provided by the government to make the judicial system stronger and more powerful. Our judicial system is the best. No one should object to this arrangement. Courts are also being established in rural areas. This matter is very satisfactory. Training should also be provided for rulers through this academy.The value of the land allotted by the Industrial Development Corporation for this building is Rs 32 crores. But it is our duty to cooperate with the judicial system. I feel very satisfied that the first such academy in the country has been given space, and the government has been able to participate in such an important work. Good lawyers should emerge from this academy. Our judiciary should be stronger and more capable.On the occasion of this event, the Bar Council of Maharashtra and Goa donated Rs. 1 crore 21 lakhs for the construction of this advocate academy and research center, the former president of the Bar Council of Maharashtra and Goa, Adv. Funds are donated. Deputy Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis announced that the government will provide a fund of ten crore rupees for this building.While introducing the program, Bar Council of Maharashtra and Goa

President Adv. Sangram Desai expressed his belief that new lawyers, ex-judges, eminent lawyers will definitely contribute to this academy. Also, this academy will provide definite assistance to the government in making new laws, this academy will always be ready to provide such assistance to the government, and appealed to the government to always remain in a role of cooperation with this academy.The program was moderated by Adv. Removing the suffering of the people is my priority: Rahul Narwekar

It is necessary to make the 60-year-old structure's authorization line 2000: Jagdish Purohit

Mumbai:

Maharashtra Assembly Speaker Adv. Rahul Narwekar said in his statement while receiving the memorandum of Mumbai Civil Rights Forum. Jagdish Purohit of Mumbai Civil Rights Forum, through this letter, informed Rahul Narwekar about many problems of the residents of Mumbai and appealed to extend the line dated 1962/64, which gives authorization to the structure determined 60 years ago, to January 1, 2000 on the lines of huts. This line was implemented by the Mumbai Municipal Corporation by order of 19 September 1968. In the same letter, Purohit has also raised the issue of providing complete justice to the rehabilitated members in the rules of Fungible Compulsory Area by the builder. Through the memorandum, the attention of Mahada was demanded that the holders of area more than 120 meters (who are very less in number) should also get incentives on the entire area in the redevelopment plan so that the plan can move forward smoothly.

Assembly Speaker Adv. Rahul Narwekar made everyone aware of the many important works done by him to stop the slaughter of cows 100 percent. Assembly Speaker Narwekar reiterated that in recent times, he played a major role in stopping the illegal activities happening at the Haveli (temple) of Lord Shri Krishna, which has ancient Sanatan traditions, located at Samuel Street (Masjid Bandar) with immediate effect and also instructed the concerned officials to deal strictly with the anti-social elements. He has started a campaign to identify the temples of all religions in South Mumbai, especially those coming under the 'B Ward' of the Municipal Corporation, and restore them to their old condition.

REDEFINING MEN’S JEWELLERY: MEN OF PLATINUM INTRODUCES THE MS DHONI SIGNATURE COLLECTION

A first in the category MS Dhoni’s signature is immortalized in rare platinum!

Mumbai, AbhishekPoddar:

Platinum Guild International (PGI) India’s Men of Platinum has launched the MS Dhoni Signature Collection, immortalising the inspiring values of cricketing legend MS Dhoni. This exclusive collection boasts of designs that reflect not only Dhoni’s immaculate style and brilliant journey but also his unmatched character and greatness. Cast in rare platinum and infused with his indomitable spirit, every piece in this collection serves as a tribute to MS Dhoni’s enduring legacy. Determination, self-belief, courage, humility, composure are all qualities that Dhoni stands for and each piece tells the story of these qualities that he holds close. A true ‘man of platinum’, and a fitting inspiration for a one-of-a-kind limited platinum jewellery collection that aspires to stir that same greatness in those who don the collection.Born of the stars, platinum is found only in select locations across the globe and is a symbol of what is truly rare and precious. Each piece of jewellery in this newly launched collection, bears the legend MS Dhoni’s signature – a precious piece of India’s sporting legacy, etched in platinum. Crafted in 95% platinum this collection from Men of Platinum is cast with clean, bold lines with minimalism at its core.Talking about the association MS Dhoni shared, “It’s been an honour to collaborate with Men of Platinum on this special collection. Platinum, with its strength, rarity, and enduring qualities, has always stood out for me. This collection, marked with my signature, carries personal significance. It reflects the values that have shaped who I am—grit, composure, and self-belief. For me, these pieces are more than just jewellery; they are a tribute to the lessons I’ve learned and the path I’ve walked.”Vaishali

Banerjee, Managing Director of Platinum Guild International, India, said, “It is a privilege and an honour to collaborate with MS Dhoni on this unique collection. Each piece in the collection carries his signature, making it truly special. It is a partnership that goes beyond creating beautiful jewellery—it’s about aligning our brand with qualities that truly resonate with our consumers, such as grit, resilience, and leadership. Through this association with MS Dhoni, we are confident that we will reinforce the values that platinum represents and further elevate its stature as a symbol of enduring success.”

ELEVATE YOUR STYLE GAME, WITH THESE TOP 5 PIECES FROM THE MS DHONI SIGNATURE EDITION:

Shri Gajanan Wankhede, Joint Director of Steam Boilers, provided details about the "Best Boiler User Competition - 2024." Special honors were awarded to the jury members for their dedication, traveling across Maharashtra to ensure the competition's success. Shri Wankhede was also specially recognized with a certificate of appreciation for his contribution to the event's success. Shri Dhawal Antapurkar, Director of the Directorate of Steam Boilers, expressed his satisfaction with the event's success, stating: “Boiler India 2024 has established a significant milestone for the Indian boiler industry. The event has facilitated the spread of new technologies, leading to improvements in industrial efficiency and safety. The performance of the participants in the competition has been outstanding, and they are sure to contribute immensely to the future growth and progress of the industry.” Lastly, a vote of thanks was delivered by Shri Bandu Ingle, Deputy Director, Directorate of Steam Boilers. Boiler India 2024 was not just a seminar and exhibition, but an event that brought together leading experts, researchers, and industry leaders from across the globe. This event marked an important milestone in shaping a safe, sustainable, and technologically advanced future for the steam boiler industry.

MAM unveils a major disaster-relief initiative

Amrita Landslide Early Warning System (A-LEWS)

MUMBAI, Sachin Murdeshwar:

On the occasion of the 71st birthday of Sri Mata Amritanandamayi Devi (Amma), the Mata Amritanandamayi Math (MAM) Unveiled a major disaster-relief initiative aimed at enhancing landslide resilience in Wayanad, Kerala. This will include an aid package of Rs.15 crores to support the survivors of recent landslides and enhance landslide resilience in the region. In collaboration with its university, Amrita VishwaVidyaapeetham, MAM will also deploy advanced landslide early warning systems in Wayanad District's most vulnerable areas, to protect people from the growing threat of climate-change-induced disasters in the region. Work on the project is set to commence as soon as official clearance is received from the Kerala State Government.This new initiative follows a series of devastating landslides that took place on July 30, 2024, causing widespread destruction in the villages of Punjirimattom, Mundakkai, Chooralmala and Vellarimala. The disaster – one of the deadliest in Kerala's recent history – resulted in more than 400 fatalities and 397 injuries, with another 118 people still reported missing. Given Wayanad's continuing vulnerability, the Math believes the programme will play a critical role in preventing future loss of life.Speaking about the initiative, Swami AmritaswarupanandaPuri, Vice Chairman, Mata Amritanandamayi Math, said, "Amma's approach to any situation, including disasters, is action endowed with compassion. She believes compassion is the first and last step of spirituality and life. Hence, Amma wishes that the survivors of Wayanad transcend immediate relief. It focuses on their long-term safety and sustainable well-being. With a financial package of INR 15 crores, we aim to support recovery efforts, including implementing the Amrita Landslide Early Warning System (A-LEWS) and providingadditional necessities. The implementation of A-LEWS will be initiated as soon as the Kerala State Government and relevant local administration sanction the project."To conduct a preliminary assessment of Wayanad's landslide disaster, Sri Mata Amritanandamayi Devi, who also serves as the university's chancellor, sent a team of experts from Amrita to assess the impact of landslides. Soon the team will return to pinpoint the most critical areas requiring protection. These areas will be equipped with site-specific landslide early warning systems.In addition a regional-level landslide early warning system will also be implemented, featuring a cutting-edge real-time risk-visualisation dashboard for district and state authorities to monitor real-time risk.

October 5. Maharashtra Deputy Chief Minister DevendraFadnavis, Amrita Fadnavis and Mumbai BJP President Advocate AshishShelar will be present as the chief guests of the program. BJP's state general secretary Sanjay Kenekar, Mumbai general secretary Sanjay Upadhyay, local MLA BhartiLavekar, Minority Front's Maharashtra president

IldrishMultani, BJP's women state president ChitraWagh, former Maharashtra Minister of State for Home Kripashankar Singh, Maharashtra vice-president EjazDeshmukh and Minority Front's Mumbai president Wasim Khan will attend the program as guests of honour. SM Khan gave the above information in a press conference held at his office in Jogeshwari West.

Mahayuti Alliance face trouble on Controversial Statement by Party MLA

MUMBAI, SACHIN MURDESHWAR:

In a video that is going viral on social media,TekchandSavarkar BJP MLA from Kamthi Assembly Constituency of Nagpur is questioned by party leaders, Why he take such a big gamble? The verbatim in the video say's "Tell me honestly from your conscience. Because the day the ballot box arrives in front of your house, my lovely sister will vote for 'Kamal' (Lotus). We made this 'bhangad' Yojana (scheme) for that reason. As the grand coalition government is launching many schemes before the elections, the controversial statement of the BJP MLA regarding the LadkiBahin scheme just before before the elections has put the Mahayuti alliance in trouble. Fadnavis, who is popular and promoted as a potential candidate for the post of Chief Minister of BJP has came to limelight and referred as a Talkative Hero, thanks to TekchandSavarkar the BJP MLA from KamtiVidhanSabha constituency of Nagpur On the whole, it has been seen time and again that our political leaders are not at all aware of modern media. Where are the freedom fighters (Action Heroes) and where are the Vachal heroes (Talkative Heroes)? Apart from the similarity in name, TekchandSavarkarVs.DamodarSavarkar can't see anything in common say's the Congress.In the last LokSabha elections held in 2019, BJP had 23 MPs. While the ally (Akhand) Shiv Sena had 18 winning MPs. Together, the two had 41 MPs in the outgoing LokSabha. But in the new LokSabha, that number has skyrocketed. The Congress-led Maharashtra Development Alliance (MVA) defeated the BJP-led National Democratic Alliance and the Grand Alliance in the state (Mahayuti). BJP's number of independent MPs dropped from 23 to 9 directly. Seventeen MPs of the Grand Alliance entered the LokSabha in Maharashtra, with seven MPs from the ally EknathShinde's Shiv Sena and only one MP from the other ally AjitPawar's NCP. It was a big shock to the superpower in Delhi.The BJP leaders in Delhi, Mumbai and Nagpur, who came to their senses with that shock, started thinking and immediately started using the state government of the Grand Alliance to regain the support they had lost. Schemes were launched targeting farmers, poor, employees, youth and women. Soyabeans for farmers, higher price for cotton, loan waiver benefits for the rest, increased share of the state in the Centre's Farmers Samman scheme, three free domestic gas cylinders for women, increase in scholarships from various corporations for youth, many skill development schemes etc. A big A big step was taken by the Shinde government. The state government is taking steps to ensure that the bank accounts of at least two crore women in the state who are eligible for the scheme should deposit at least three weeks like fifteen hundred every month before the announcement of assembly elections.This scheme of directly depositing fifteen hundred rupees per month in the account of beloved sisters became very popular. But it has also been objected by the leaders of MahavikasAghadi. Even though the plan is good, the government's intention to bring it is not clear, there has been criticism since the first day. While criticizing the government, Uddhav Thackeray, Sharad Pawar, Prithviraj Chavanetc have admitted that the scheme is good and beneficial and it can benefit the government in elections. EknathShinde, DevendraFadnavis and AjitPawar, the leaders of Mahayuti are going to all parts of the state and holding meetings to give the benefits of the scheme to women. They are also doing programs to tie rakhi directly from among the women there. NCP minister AditiTatkare's women and child welfare department brought the scheme. The name is Chief Minister's beloved sister scheme and the money is being given from the treasury under AjitPawar's control. Moreover, the original father of this scheme is BJP leader Shivraj Singh Chouhan, former Chief Minister of Madhya Pradesh. Then the BJP leaders are also a sharer of the credit. We are also seeing that there is a tug-of-war in the grand coalition over the success of the scheme. In such an overall situation, BJP MLA from Kamthi Constituency Tekchand Savarkar has decided the opposition's strength in a public event. The government came up with this Bhangad (scheme), it is a gamble for voting, he said. Otherwise, talk is one thing and action is one thing, am I a worker of Ramdev Baba?," MLA Savarkar also said.In the present age of social media, the exact words of that speech with the description of 'Jugad' and 'Bhangad' have started to spread rapidly everywhere through a clip and those words are going to cost BJP dearly. See, we have already said that the government has introduced the Ladaki Bahin Yojana only to win votes. Once the elections are over, the plans will be thrown away. Nothing will fall into the hands of beloved sisters later.. Congress has started this kind of criticism. All the political leaders should keep in mind the importance of emerging social media such as WhatsApp, Twitter, Facebook and Instagram. Similar Controversial terrible mistakes done earlier by former State home minister R. R. Patil (2015) He had said, "If MNS candidate wanted to contest and become an MLA, he should have committed rape after the elections." Patil said it when MNS approached and assured to support him in the Assembly Polls. In another incident (2013) Ajit Dada, when he was the Irrigation Minister during the Congress regime, said, "How to increase the water in the dam, now shall I urinate in it?" Such statements were made. The front-mounted TV channel mics continued the slang before and after the press conference. Next (2010), the then Maharashtra Congress party chief ManikaraoThakre, who was not aware of the socialmedia, complained to Guardian Minister SatishChaturvedi that the then State Chief Minister Ashok Chavan was not giving money to the party fund of Sonia Gandhi. AshokChavan had promised to send two crores rupees from his personal account and has also asked his cabinet ministers to shell out 10 lakhs rupees each for Sonia's rally in Wardha.This conversation proved to be a major embarrassment for the Congress. Recently Rahul Gandhi (LoP) Congress had to apologise on his controversial remarks in the US, which were labelled 'Anti-India' by the Government and other party leaders. Media is looking for such an explosive clip, the politicians should be aware before they speak any controversial statement which can deface them in public.Talking on this narrative Maharashtra CM directed that under the Mukhyamantri Majhi Ladki Bahin Yojana, presented in the state budget at the end of June, underprivileged women aged 21 to 65 will be given Rs 1,500 every month. Chief Minister EknathShinde said that the Chief Minister MajhiLadki Bahin Yojana has been extended till September 30 and no one can stop this scheme.

MUDA Scam: Special Court Directs Probe Against Karnataka CM Siddaramaiah, Report Due in Three Months

A special court in Karnataka on Wednesday (September 25) has directed the Mysurulokayukta police to investigate chief minister Siddaramaiah, his wife B.M. Parvathi, and others in connection with the alleged Mysore Urban Development Authority (MUDA) scam and submit a report within three months. The investigation order comes a day after the Karnataka high court dismissed Siddaramaiah's petition challenging the governor's approval for an investigation into the site allotment case. Reacting to the special court for elected representatives' directive today, Siddaramaiah wrote on X, "I am ready to face the investigation and continue the legal fight. As I said yesterday, I repeat today: there is no question of fearing an investigation; I am determined to face everything. After discussing with legal experts, I will decide the next course of action." The controversy revolves around the allocation of compensatory sites to Parvathi by MUDA in a prime locality in Mysuru. The sites were allocated under a 50:50 ratio scheme in exchange for 3.16 acres of land, which was supposedly developed into a residential layout. However, allegations suggest that Parvathi did not hold legal title to the 3.16-acre land in question. Activist Snehamayi Krishna filed a private complaint, raising concerns about the legality of the site allotment process. The investigation will examine the allegations of improper site allocation, undervalued land exchange, and questionable land ownership. "The decision of the governor of alleged hot haste has not vitiated the order, the order is restrictive to approval under Section 17A of the Act and not an order granting sanction under 21B of BNSS," the high court had mentioned in its order on Tuesday, as per Live Law. Section 17A allows for inquiry or investigation into offences related to decisions made by public servants in their official capacity. The development has sparked a political row in Karnataka, with Opposition parties demanding Siddaramaiah's resignation. "Over the last year and a half that Siddaramaiah has been the chief minister there have been many many instances of public money being looted... Rahul Gandhi should do a press conference on the land scam and corruption scam that's going on in his party... He should answer why does it happen that leaders of the Congress party loot the money and assets that is meant for the poor. When will they put a halt to this?" Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) leader Rajeev Chandrasekhar said in a press conference on Tuesday. The Congress party has accused the governor of bias, claiming he has not acted on other pending cases. "The court has explicitly dismissed the prosecution sanction under Section 21B of the BNSS Act. In due course, the investigation permitted under Section 17(A) will also be reveal your false allegations," Karnataka minister Priyank Kharge said post the high court order on Tuesday. Similarly, deputy chief minister D.K. Shivakumar mentioned that the Congress party stands firmly behind the chief minister. "BJP [is] doing political conspiracy, we stand firm with our chief minister," Shivakumar told.

Did Tirupati Devotees Consume Non-Vegetarian Laddus?

DINESH SINGH :

Since Andhra Pradesh chief minister N. Chandrababu Naidu alleged on September 18 that animal fat was used in preparing the famous Tirupatiladdu during Jagan Mohan Reddy's time in government, a burning question has emerged: Did crores of devotees unknowingly consume non-vegetarian laddus? The allegation sent shockwaves through the devotee community, raising both spiritual and health concerns. Neither the NDA government nor the Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams (TTD), the trust managing the temple, has provided a satisfactory answer to this pressing concern. This convenient equivocation has sparked widespread confusion in traditional and digital media, particularly on social platforms where misleading and concerted communal narratives are being actively propagated, fuelled by the Hindutva ecosystem. Circulating images of unverified lab reports, purportedly proving the use of animal fat in the ghee for laddu preparation, have lent several questionable narratives a veneer of scientific legitimacy. Despite this, dairy scientists have independently clarified that the fatty acid profile is more consistent with plant or vegetable oils. Furthermore, the show cause notice issued to AR Dairy Food Private Limited only alleges adulteration with plant-based oils, citing the presence of β -sitosterol – a plant sterol – rather than animal fats.

TTD's conflicting press conferences

Two separate press conferences by the TTD executive officer referenced the same National Dairy Development Board CALF report, which revealed ghee adulteration with plant-based oils rather than animal fats. CALF is the Centre for Analysis and learning in Livestock and Food. However, executive officer J. Shyamala Rao drew different inferences from the report in each conference – initially identifying vegetable fat adulteration, but later citing dangerously low 'S' values suggestive of animal fats. Dairy scientists clarified that the fatty acid profile was more consistent with plant oils like coconut and palm oil. Meanwhile, ghee traders confirmed that plant-based adulteration is common, as cheaper oils are often used to cut costs, making animal fat adulteration unlikely. On July 24, J. Shyamala Rao held a press conference to address concerns about the laddu's quality. He revealed that an National Accreditation Board for Testing and Calibration Laboratories (NABL) test had uncovered one supplier providing ghee adulterated with vegetable fat. As a result, one of the five suppliers was blacklisted for failing to meet quality standards. Action was taken against another company, with show cause notices issued to two suppliers in total. At the same press conference, Rao acknowledged that TTD currently lacks a device for testing ghee quality, though plans are in motion to acquire one soon. He highlighted ongoing challenges in procuring raw materials and ghee for the ladduprasadam. To bolster quality control, TTD has formed a committee of dairy experts – dubbed the "Ghee Committee" – comprising Dr. Mahadevan from Bengaluru, Dr. Surendranath, Dr. Vijaya Bhaskar Reddy from Hyderabad, and professor Swarna Latha. This committee's primary task will be to assess the ghee's quality, with a particular focus on its aroma and overall integrity. Lab tests revealed significant adulteration, but rather than animal fats, the tests suggested the use of cheaper vegetable oils, complicating Naidu's allegation. On September 20, J. Shyamala Rao held another press conference two days after Naidu's allegations about the quality of ghee supplied to the temple. Following complaints about the poor quality of laddus, TTD had sent ghee samples to the NDDB in Gujarat for analysis. The results revealed that four out of 10 tankers from Tamil Nadu-based AR Dairy Food Private Limited – one of TTD's five contracted suppliers – were highly adulterated. This led to the rejection of these shipments and the blacklisting of the supplier. Citing the NDDB report, Rao highlighted that the ghee's 'S' value – a key quality indicator – was alarmingly low at 19.72, far below the required standard of 98.68 to 104.32 indicating it contained dangerously high levels of foreign fats, including fish oil, beef tallow, and lard, as revealed by the lab tests.

Analysing fatty acid profiles and adulteration claims

Interestingly, the NABL report Rao referenced in the July 24 press conference is the same NDDB-CALF report he mentioned in the September 20 press conference. The NABL is India's primary accreditation body for laboratories. The NDDB, established by an Act of Parliament, operates under the Ministry of Fisheries, Animal Husbandry and Dairying. NDDB's CALF in Anand is a multidisciplinary analytical laboratory. In 2013, CALF received ISO/IEC 17025 accreditation from NABL, validating its competence and reliability.

The Wire has obtained access to this five-page NDDB-CALF report (plus annexure). The report details the results of a chemical analysis conducted by NDDB CALF Ltd. on a ghee sample labelled "TN02BB 2070". The analysis revealed key findings about the ghee's fatty acid composition and adulteration tests, marked with # in the report. The Free Fatty Acid (Oleic Acid) level was 0.440%, well below the FSSAI maximum limit of 2.000%. Milk Fat content measured 99.618%, surpassing the minimum requirement of 99.500% set by IS 3509:1966. The Butyro Refractometer reading of 43.400 fell within the acceptable range of 40,000–44,000. Adulteration tests yielded negative results for both the Baudouin Test (no sesame oil detected) and the Mineral Oil Test (no mineral oil contamination found). However, the analysis identified several fatty acids outside the specified ranges: Lauric Acid at 11.713% (permissible range: 1.500–4.000%), Palmitic Acid at 39.462% (exceeding the 38.000% upper limit), and Linoleic Acid at 5.538% (acceptable range: 0.500–3.500%). Other parameters showed a Moisture Content of 0.124%, well within the maximum limit of 0.500%. The Saponification Value of 241.952 exceeded the specified maximum of 235.000, suggesting the presence of fats with lower molecular weights than expected.

Understanding ghee composition and adulteration

A dairy scientist based in Canada, speaking to The Wire on condition of anonymity, confirmed that analysing the fatty acid profile can help assess the possibility of ghee adulteration with animal fat. "While animal fats, particularly beef tallow or pork lard, have distinct fatty acid compositions, the report does not provide conclusive evidence to either confirm or rule out this type of adulteration," she said. Expanding on the report's inconclusive findings, she explained, "Lauric acid, commonly found in tropical oils like coconut oil, was detected in high amounts, making plant oils a more likely adulterant than animal fats. Similarly, palmitic acid, which is common in both dairy and animal fats, exceeded the permissible limit. However, this alone does not specifically indicate animal fat adulteration, as palmitic acid could come from either source." She further explained, "Ghee, derived from cow's milk, is rich in short-chain fatty acids like butyric acid. The report shows that butyric acid was below the limit of quantification (LOQ), which could raise suspicions. However, if animal fats were present, we would expect to see more significant differences in other key fatty acids, such as stearic and oleic acids." "These two fatty acids are common in both animal and dairy fats. Stearic acid at 9.614% is within the expected range for ghee (8.000–19.000%), which suggests there is not a high amount of animal fat, as tallow and lard have higher stearic acid content. Oleic acid at 26.302% also falls within the expected range for ghee (19.000–32.000%)." "The Reichert-Meissl Value (RM) is 29.010, well above the minimum limit of 24.000. While a low RM value could indicate the presence of non-dairy fats, such as animal fats, the high RM value here suggests that the sample contains a significant amount of dairy fat. The Polenske Value is 1.700, within the range of 0.500–2.000. This value helps distinguish animal fats from dairy fats, and the result does not raise any red flags for animal fat adulteration."

Show Cause Notice: Allegations of Plant-Based Adulteration

The Wire also obtained access to the show cause notice issued by the TTD to AR Dairy Food Private Limited on July 27. The notice cites the lab test report from NDDB CALF Ltd. dated July 23, 2024. The show cause notice does not accuse AR Dairy of adding animal fats to the ghee. Rather, it alleges adulteration with plant-based oils, citing the presence of β -sitosterol – a plant sterol. This evidence points to the addition of vegetable fats, not animal fats. The abnormalities in the fatty acid profile, particularly the high levels of Lauric and Linoleic Acids, also align with the use of vegetable oils such as coconut or palm oil, rather than animal fats. The show cause notice raises objections on three parameters: saponification value, presence of β -sitosterol, and milk fat purity. "The saponification value of 249.644, which is outside the permissible range, suggests the presence of non-milk or foreign fats, indicating adulteration. Additionally, the high β -sitosterol value of 167.895 mg/kg, which should be absent in pure cow ghee, strongly indicates possible adulteration with vegetable oils, as β -sitosterol is a plant sterol commonly found in plant oils," Velugoti Padmanabha Reddy told The Wire. Reddy is the vice-chancellor of Sri Venkateswara Veterinary University, Tirupati, and a distinguished veterinarian, and renowned dairy and food safety researcher with over 35 years of multidisciplinary professional experience. He emphasised that the milk fat content was 99.618%, exceeding the required 99.5%.

"Achieving 100% purity is virtually impossible," he explained. "The standard for ghee is 99.5% milk fat, with the remaining 0.5% allowance for moisture and vitamins. In this case, the moisture content was a mere 0.124%, well below the permitted 0.5% – a clear indicator of good quality in that aspect." The show cause notice clearly does not accuse AR Dairy Food Private Limited of adding animal fats to the ghee. Rather, it alleges adulteration with plant-based oils, citing the presence of β -sitosterol – a plant sterol. This evidence points to the addition of vegetable fats, not animal fats. The abnormalities in the fatty acid profile, particularly the high levels of Lauric and Linoleic Acids, also align with the use of vegetable oils such as coconut or palm oil, rather than animal fats.

Misinterpretation of results: The complexity of ghee testing

When asked about EO Syamala Rao's claim that the ghee's 'S' value was dangerously low at 19.72, Reddy explained that these values come from highly sophisticated tests. "The fatty acid test is extremely complex and typically reserved for research, not routine analysis. It's also quite expensive," he noted. "The 'S value' actually refers to the separation value. In chromatography, when you have a sample with, say, 25 acids, these compounds separate and travel at different rates, indicating their nature. It's not saponification, but separation. Many people are misinterpreting it as the saponification value," he clarified. He cautions that these sophisticated chromatographic tests can produce false positives due to trace amounts of foreign substances. "With such advanced chromatographic separation, the chance of false positives at these levels is quite high. That's why annexure-1 outlines the conditions under which these false positives might occur," he explained. "These cutting-edge testing methods can be incredibly sensitive, often detecting minute traces that don't necessarily affect the product's overall quality or safety." Furthermore, he elaborated: "Consider this analogy: if someone claimed that breast milk contains pesticides, would you believe it? In reality, pesticides can be present in extremely minute quantities. Sophisticated chromatography tests might detect these trace amounts. Most people would dismiss the idea of pesticides in breast milk. However, if you send a sample to a high-tech laboratory for chromatographic testing, they might detect traces of pesticides, microplastics, or heavy metals. Does this mean breast milk is contaminated? I believe they're essentially taking a minuscule finding and blowing it out of proportion."

Ghee traders weigh in

The Wire also reached out to multiple ghee traders who confirmed that ghee is one of the most adulterated substances. "Ghee is generally mixed with vegetable oils or vanaspati for two reasons," Nirbhay Doshi, a former ghee trader from Ahmedabad, told The Wire. "First, they're usually cheaper than animal fats like beef tallow or fish oil. Second, while animal fats might maintain a similar flavour and texture, the aroma is a dead giveaway. Fish oil, in particular, can be easily detected by its distinct smell in the ghee." The Ghee Committee's draft report, submitted to the TTD executive officer in early September and first accessed by news organisation South First, acknowledges sensory testing as crucial for quality control. This method assesses the ghee's organoleptic properties—aroma, flavour, and texture. However, the report also highlights this approach's inherent subjectivity. "It's virtually impossible for ghee adulterated with animal fats, especially fish oil, to pass TTD's sensory testing, given the institution's experience and carefully selected team," Prof. Reddy told The Wire. "The aroma of the ghee is so well-known to both TTD and devotees that even the slightest change would raise suspicion." When asked about reassuring the millions of devotees, he categorically stated, "There's no need to worry. TTD's practices are safe, and devotees can have full confidence in them." Despite Naidu's political allegations, all evidence points toward the use of plant-based adulterants rather than animal fats, offering some relief to devotees concerned about the sanctity of their offerings.

Humming birds Thrive on an Extreme Life style. Here's How?

Everyone loves to watch hummingbirds – tiny, brightly coloured blurs that dart about, hovering at flowers and pugnaciously defending their ownership of a feeder. But to the scientists who study them, hummingbirds offer much more than an entertaining spectacle. Their small size and blazing metabolism mean they live life on a knife-edge, sometimes needing to shut down their bodies almost completely just to conserve enough energy to survive the night – or to migrate thousands of miles, at times across open ocean. Their nectar-rich diet leads to blood-sugar levels that would put a person in a coma. And their zipping, zooming flight sometimes generates g-forces high enough to make a fighter pilot black out. The more researchers look, the more surprises lurk within those tiny bodies, the smallest in the avian world. "They're the only bird in the world that can fly upside down and backwards," says Holly Ernest, a conservation ecologist with the University of Wyoming. "They drink pure sugar and don't die of diabetes." Ernest is one of a small number of researchers studying how hummingbirds cope with the extreme demands of their lifestyles. Here's some of what scientists have learned about the unique adaptations of hummingbirds.

Put in the work

For years, most researchers had assumed that hummingbirds spent only about 30% of their day engaged in the energy-intensive business of flitting from flower to flower and guzzling nectar, while resting most of the other time. But when physiological ecologist Anusha Shankar looked closely, she found they're often working a lot harder than that. Shankar, now of the Tata Institute of Fundamental Research in Hyderabad, India, tried to figure out how broad-billed hummingbirds in Southern Arizona spend their days. Using a mix of experimental methods, she measured the birds' metabolic rate during various activities and estimated their total daily energy expenditure. Adding in previous published data, Shankar was able to calculate the per-minute energy cost of perching, flying and hovering – basically a bird's three options for spending time. She then inferred how much time the birds must have spent feeding versus perching over the course of a day. "We ended up finding that it's super variable," Shankar says. During the early part of the summer when flowers are abundant, birds could meet their daily energy needs with as little as a few hours of feeding, spending as much as 70% of the day just perching, she found. But when flowers became scarcer after the arrival of the summer monsoon rains, birds at one site perched just 20% of the time and used the rest of the day for feeding. "That's 13 hours a day!" Shankar says. "There's no way I can spend 13 hours a day running. I don't know how they do it."

Seriously chill

Hummingbirds have a trick to help them eke out their energy reserves: When a bird is in danger of running out of energy, it may go torpid at night, dropping its body temperature nearly to that of the surrounding air – sometimes just a few degrees above freezing. While in torpor, the bird appears almost comatose, unable to respond quickly to stimuli, and breathing only intermittently. The strategy can save up to 95% of hourly metabolic costs during cold nights, Shankar has calculated. That can be essential after days when a bird has fed less than usual, such as after a thunderstorm. It also helps birds save energy to pack on fat before migration. Shankar is now studying which parts of their physiology hummingbirds prioritize during torpor, by looking to see which gene products they can't do without. "If you're a hummingbird functioning at 10% of your normal metabolism, what is that 10% that's keeping you alive?" she asks. One set of genes that the birds seem to leave untouched are those responsible for their internal clock. "It's important for them to do things at the right time when they're in torpor," Shankar says. To be ready to meet the day, for example, the birds begin to rouse from their torpor about an hour before sunrise, well before visible light cues.

Deal with the sugar

To fuel their sky-high metabolic rate, hummingbirds suck down about 80% of their body weight in nectar each day. That's the equivalent of a 150-pound person drinking nearly a hundred 20-ounce Cokes daily – and nectar is often much sweeter than a soda. The human gut is incapable of absorbing sugar that fast, which is one reason why consuming too much soda or Halloween candy upsets the stomach, says Ken Welch, a comparative physiologist at the University of Toronto at Scarborough. Hummingbirds cope with the onslaught by having leaky guts so that sugars can enter the bloodstream between gut cells instead of only through them. This gets sugar out of the gut quickly, before it can cause upset. That rapid transport, and probably other adaptations as well, allows hummingbirds to reach blood sugar levels as much as six times higher than those seen in people, Welch says. That much sugar in the blood leads to serious physiological problems in people. It causes more sugar molecules to glom onto body proteins, a process known as glycation; in the long run, excess glycation causes many of the complications of diabetes, such as nerve damage. It's still unclear how hummingbirds avoid the problems of glycation, Welch says, but clues are beginning to emerge. One study, for example, found that bird proteins contain fewer of the amino acids most prone to glycation than mammal proteins, and those that remain are often tucked deep within the protein where they're less exposed to circulating sugars. Other, as yet unknown strategies to cope with high blood sugar may one day yield practical benefits for managing diabetes in people. "There could be a gold mine in the genome of the hummingbird," says Welch.

Do a metabolic flip

By the end of its nightly fast, a hummingbird has nearly depleted its sugar stores – which poses an opposite metabolic challenge. "How does it wake up and fly?" Welch asks. "There's nothing but fat available to burn." Hummingbirds have evolved to be remarkably nimble at switching their metabolism from sugar-burning to fat-burning, he has found. "This requires an enormous shift in the biochemical pathways that are involved," Welch says – and it happens in mere minutes, far more quickly than other organisms can manage. "If we could have that kind of control over our fuel use, we'd love that."

Save water – or not

Sugar isn't the only challenge posed by a nectar-rich diet. After all, nectar is mostly water – and birds that drink in so much liquid must get rid of most of it, without losing electrolytes. As a result, hummingbird kidneys are highly adapted to recapture electrolytes before they are excreted. "They pee almost distilled water," says Carlos Martinez del Rio, an ecophysiolgist now retired from the University of Wyoming. But that brings a further problem: If a hummingbird kept producing dilute urine overnight, it would die of dehydration before morning. To avoid that, hummingbirds shut down their kidneys every night. "They go into what, in a human, would be considered acute renal failure," says Martinez del Rio. "Hummingbirds have to do this, or they would piss themselves to death."

Fly high – gradually

The metabolic demands on a hummingbird are tough enough at sea level. But many species live at high elevations, where thin air contains less oxygen and offers less resistance to push against when hovering. Consider the giant hummingbird, the world's largest, which can live in the Andes Mountains at elevations over 14,000 feet – higher than many helicopters can fly. To cope with these conditions, the birds have evolved more hemoglobin-rich blood, says Jessie Williamson, an ornithologist at Cornell University. But some of the birds face an even steeper challenge, as Williamson found. Giant hummingbirds are large enough that researchers can attach satellite tracking tags, as well as smaller geolocators. So Williamson and her colleagues decided to fit the birds with trackers. After thousands of hours spent trying to capture birds with netting, the researchers managed to attach trackers to 57 birds using custom-made harnesses of elastic jewelry cord. Though they recovered tracking data from only eight birds, even that tiny sample had a big surprise: Some of the birds lived in the high Andes year-round, while others – which turned out to be a separate, hitherto unrecognised species – migrate to the Andes annually from breeding grounds along the coast of Chile. That means they face not only the obvious challenges of a long migration – a round trip of roughly 5,000 miles – but also the need to adapt to thinner air as they travel. Their secret? Do it gradually. "It looks a lot like how human mountaineers summit something like Mount Everest, with bursts of climbing and pauses to acclimatize," Williamson says. "The journey takes months." As tracking technology becomes lighter and cheaper, researchers like Williamson hope to follow smaller hummingbird species as well. That, together with other progress in research technology, may offer plenty of new surprises about the biology of these tiny, amazing birds.

Manu Bhaker On What Changed After 2024 Paris Olympic Success: ‘NOTHING’

New Delhi, (Agencies):

Olympic shooting ace Manu Bhaker revealed that ‘nothing’ has changed in her life following success at the 2024 Paris Games. Manu scripted history at the Paris Olympics 2024, securing two bronze medals in shooting. Ever since her triumph, the 22-year-old shooter has constantly been in the limelight. She has been spotted at several events over the last few months. While Manu has been dealing with a packed schedule recently, she claimed that nothing has changed in her life following her Olympic success.Sharing a post on X, (formerly Twitter), the ace shooter wrote, “For all those who are asking me what has changed in my life after I won the medals: NOTHING.”Manu Bhaker is currently on a break from training. She is enjoying some time with her close and loved ones. “I am the same Manu Bhaker and enjoying my break,” she wrote.Manu even provided an update on her return to the shooting range and wrote, “I will return to the shooting ranges in November and start training again.”She eventually finished her post with a thank you note for her supporters. “Thanks for your love and attention. Manu,” she concluded.The 2024 Paris Olympics witnessed Manu Bhaker become the first-ever athlete in independent India to win multiple medals at the same edition of the sporting extravaganza. She first made headlines for winning a bronze medal in the women’s 10-metre air pistol event. Manu added another crown to her mantle by teaming up with Sarabjot Singh to land a second bronze in the mixed team event of the 10-metre air pistol.Talking about her journey in professional shooting, Manu Bhaker recently shared a heartwarming post on X. The 22-year-old athlete uploaded a photograph where she posed with all the medals and trophies she won throughout her career. “I was 14 when I started my journey in shooting. Never had I imagined I would reach this far. Once you start something, make sure you do everything possible to chase your dreams relentlessly, no matter how tough it gets,” she wrote.Manu Bhaker also shared some advice to people pursuing their passion while stating that her Olympic journey was far from over. “Stay focused, stay driven, and let your passion fuel your journey. Every small step forward brings you closer to greatness. Keep going, you’re capable of much more than you imagine! And, yes, my dream of winning Olympic gold medals continues,” she concluded.

State Associations Propose No Confidence Motion Against AITA President Jain

Kanpur, (Agencies):

In an unprecedented move, eight state tennis associations, affiliated with AITA, have proposed to move a no confidence motion against president Anil Jain and an Extra Ordinary General Meeting (EGM) has been called on September 28 in New Delhi for the purpose. Interestingly, the All India Tennis Association (AITA) has called the EGM on the day it is scheduled to hold its Annual General Meeting (AGM) and conduct elections, the result of which can’t be declared and are to be submitted to the Delhi High Court in a sealed envelop. Jain, who is a BJP RajyaSabha MP, is facing the charges of “loading the association with his personal ‘entitled’ expenses by travelling with his family abroad several times.” The state units that proposed the no-confidence motion are: Assam, Gujarat, Jammu and Kashmir, Haryana Maharashtra, Punjab, Tamil Nadu and Tripura.If the no confidence motion is passed, Jain will cease to be AITA President. Never in the history of Indian tennis has the head of the federation been removed in this fashion. Jain was elected the AITA President unopposed in September 2020, replacing Praveen Mahajan. He served as AITA Vice President before that from 2016-2020. When contacted by PTI, Jain said the state units have opened the front against him because he advised them to follow Sports Code during the upcoming elections.“This EGM is illegal. A three-week notice is required to call any meeting. This meeting is null and void. I will take legal action. Clause 15 of AITA constitution explains the process to call meetings. You can’t send a notice on 23rd of a month and call a meeting on the 28th.“Is this their way to penalise me for saying that they must follow Sports Code? All of them will be disqualified because this Electoral College is wrong. If I have done anything wrong, I will go,” Jain said.However, an official from the state associations said there are more allegations against Jain and it’s not an issue of following the Sports Code.“Who says we are not following Sports Code? We are Code-compliant. We will never go against the law of the land. This is not about Sports Code. If this was the issue, why he did not say anything when the EC meeting was held last month and AGM and elections were announced.“This is the time to clean the system, this is the time to support the players and change the face of Indian tennis. We are united in this. We have a capable team to do it. You will see Indian tennis changing after these elections,” he said. One of state associations accused Jain of using his position in AITA for personal gains.“Setting aside all the principles of good governance, he has used the AITA Trust for his personal hidden agenda by becoming a permanent trustee in his individual capacity instead of being in ex-officio capacity,” a state association wrote to AITA on September 21.“All the members of AITA, have so far remained silent with a view to maintain dignity and cohesiveness within the fraternity of AITA.”

World Cup Jeete Yaa Na Jeete, Pakistan Ke Against Nahi Haarna Hai Aap Logon Ko'

New Delhi, (Agencies):

It’s been well over a year since India suffered a massive heartbreak in a close semi-final clash in last year’s Women’s T20 World Cup in South Africa. The defeat had shattered the entire team as they fell five runs short of beating Australia in Cape Town. But taking lessons from the past, the Women in Blue are motivated enough to script history when the next edition of the mega ICC takes place in UAE.India will begin their campaign on October 3 against

New Zealand, before locking horns with arch-rivals Pakistan next Sunday. Speaking about the on-field rivalry with Pakistan, star batter Jemimah Rodrigues recalled her match-winning knock against Pakistan in last year’s T20 World Cup.Jemimah had no great knocks against her name. Hence, it was understandable that Jemimah was nervous the night before the clash against Pakistan, a match-up that brings added pressure on both teams.“I was not in the best of form and then comes the big game against Pakistan – the entire world watching, especially in India. You know how the India-Pakistan rivalry is – all watchmen in the building come and tell me, ‘World Cup jeeteyanaajeete, Pakistan ke against nahihaarnaap logon ko’ (Whether you win World Cup or not, you don’t have to lose against Pakistan),” Jemimah was quoted as saying by IANS.To ease her nervousness, Jemimah followed her usual routine of going out for a walk. On the way, she stopped, looked upwards and said, “Thank you, Jesus, last year at the same time I was dropped from the ODI World Cup, but this time I’m here’.”I just thanked him for that and it just changed my perspective – of just being grateful for where I was and how the journey wasn’t easy,” she said.In the shortest format, Jemimah has primarily been a top-order batter, but the upcoming T20 World Cup might see her play at number five. She also feels excelling at number five in T20Is is all about adapting to situations, and conditions and the mindset remains the same.“I’m just trying to be a little more aggressive and positive because sometimes situations at number five are very different from three, as there it’s more like you build innings, partnerships, run and do everything to set a momentum and tempo.“At five, you already know the situation and from there, you have to take whatever comes. So I’ve been working a lot on that, like going all out from the first ball because sometimes in a match, you may need six runs off one ball and I want to be prepared for that at five.”

Israel Says It Eliminated Hezbollah Chief Hassan NasrallahIn Beirut Assault, His Daughter Too Reported Killed

Beirut, (Agencies):

Hassan Nasrallah, who has led Hezbollah for 32 years, was killed in the targeted IDF air strikes on the Iranian-backed outfit’s central headquarters in Beirut, the Israeli military confirmed on Saturday.The strike was carried out by Israeli Air Force (IAF) fighter jets at the group’s Central Headquarters, reportedly located underground beneath a residential building in the Dahieh area. Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu had reportedly authorised the strike before addressing the United Nations General Assembly in New York. ‘NASRALLAH WAS ELIMINATED’ “The Israeli @IDF confirms that Hassan Nasrallah, the leader of the Hezbollah terrorist organization and one of its founders, was eliminated yesterday, together with Ali Karkri, the Commander of Hezbollah’s Southern Front, and additional Hezbollah commanders,” the official account of the State of Israel said in a post on X.The strike was conducted after Israel had precise intelligence indicating that senior Hezbollah commanders were present at the location, actively planning terrorist activities against Israel. “During Hassan Nastallah’s 32-year reign as the Secretary-General of Hezbollah, he was responsible for the murder of many Israeli civilians and soldiers, and the planning and execution of thousands of terrorist activities,” the IDF said in a statement.

NASRALLAH’S DAUGHTER ALSO DEAD?

The large-scale air strikes on Friday rocked the Lebanese capital, sending thick clouds of smoke billowing over the city. This marks the heaviest assault on Beirut in nearly a year of ongoing conflict between Hezbollah and Israel. The Times Of Israel reported. Labesnes authorities said More than 700 people were killed in strikes over the past week. Reports also emerged about the killing of Nasrallah’s daughter ZainabNasrallah in an Israeli airstrike in southern Beirut. Israeli news channel Channel 12 reported her death, but there has been no official confirmation from Hezbollah or Lebanese authorities. If confirmed, Zainab’s death could have significant symbolic implications for Hezbollah and may influence the group’s response to the ongoing conflict with Israel.After the Beirut strike, IDF Spokesperson R.-Adm. Daniel Hagari said that they were probing the status of Nasrallah and would update soon. “We used a highly precise strike to target Hezbollah leader Hassan Nasrallah, who was hiding in civilian buildings in the Dahiya neighbourhood of Beirut.” When asked about whether others were killed, he said, “Once we’ve finished investigating, we will update you on the details.”

IRAN’S EMERGENCY MEETING AND ITS ‘RED LINES’ Iranian Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei called an emergency session of the country’s Supreme National Security Council at his home

Friday, The New York Times reported, citing two Iranian officials with knowledge of the meeting. President MasoudPezeshkian also condemned the strikes as a “flagrant war crime” that “has revealed once again the nature of this regime’s state terrorism.”Ali Larjani, adviser to Khamenei, said Israel “is crossing Tehran’s red lines, and the situation is becoming serious.” “Assassinations will not solve Israel’s problem... With the assassination of resistance leaders, others will take their place,” Larjani told Iran’s state TV, amid speculation that Nasrallah had been killed. “The resistance has strong commanders and cadres, and every commander who is martyred will have a replacement,” he said.

H E Z B O L L A H COMMANDERS KILLED

The attack on Nasrallah came as the IDF increased its strikes on Hezbollah, the Iranian proxy group that has repeatedly targeted Israel. For the past year, the IDF and Hezbollah have been involved in a limited cross-border conflict, which has been happening alongside the war in Gaza.In another update, the Israeli army said Saturday it killed the commander of Hezbollah’s missile unit in southern Lebanon in an air strike, along with his deputy and several other leaders of the group. Israeli fighter jets killed “Muhammad Ali Ismail, the commander of Hezbollah’s missile unit in southern Lebanon, and his deputy,” the military said in a statement, adding that “other Hezbollah commanders and terrorists were eliminated”.The statement said Ismail was “responsible for many acts of terrorism...including rocket launches towards the territory of the State of Israel and the launch of a surface-to-surface missile towards the centre of the country last Wednesday”. The Israeli military said it also killed Ibrahim Muhammad Kabisi and “other senior officials in Hezbollah’s missile and rocket army”.

‘IF YOU STRIKE US, WE WILL STRIKE YOU’ Meanwhile, the UN has repeatedly condemned this week’s sharp escalation of violence in Lebanon. “We are witnessing the deadliest period in Lebanon in a generation, and many express their fear that this is just the beginning,” the UN humanitarian coordinator in Lebanon, Imran Riza, said. US Secretary of State Antony Blinken appealed again for a ceasefire, after a US-led bid for a truce failed earlier this week. “The path to diplomacy may seem difficult to see at this moment, but it is there, and in our judgement, it is necessary,” Blinken said.The Lebanon violence has raised fears of wider turmoil in the Middle East, with Iran-backed militants across the region vowing to keep up their fight with Israel. Netanyahu took aim at Iran in his UN General Assembly address, saying: “I have a message for the tyrants of Tehran. If you strike us, we will strike you.” “There is no place in Iran that the long arm of Israel cannot reach, and that’s true of the entire Middle East,” he added.

'If You Strike Us, We Will Strike You': Israel PM Netanyahu's Big Warning For Iran At UN

Beirut, (Agencies):

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu vowed to keep striking Hezbollah and fight “until victory” against Hamas, in an address to world leaders on Friday that defied calls for ceasefires in Lebanon and Gaza.He also shot a warning at Iran and said Israel would retaliate if Tehran carries out a direct attack.“If you strike us, we will strike you, there is no place in Iran where the long arm of Israel can not reach,” the Israeli PM said.Israel’s aerial bombardment of Hezbollah strongholds around Lebanon has killed around 700 people this week alone, according to the health ministry, but a US-led bid for a ceasefire has failed to take hold.“As long as Hezbollah chooses the path of war, Israel has no choice, and Israel has every right to remove this threat and return our citizens to their home safe,” Netanyahu told the UN General Assembly, adding that operations against the Iran-backed militant group will “continue until we meet our objectives.”Nearly a year into the war with Hamas in Gaza, Israel shifted its focus to its northern front with Lebanon, with its wave of aerial bombardment sparking an exodus of around 118,000 people.On Friday, Lebanon’s National News Agency said Israeli air strikes had intensified overnight, and that one strike had killed a family of nine in south Lebanon.

TANKS PREPARE FOR GROUND

OFFENSIVE

Israel said on Friday that any ground operation against Hezbollah in Lebanon would be swift.“We will try to do it as short as we can,” said the official, without providing a clear timeline or specifying what would be the objectives of a ground campaign. The goal of Israeli military operations in Lebanon is to downgrade Hezbollah’s capacity to fire on Israel, eliminate the group’s military leadership and “clean” the border areas from fighters, he said. Photos released by news agency Reuters showed Israeli soldiers working among tanks lined up along the Israel-Lebanon border.Hezbollah fighters began firing on Israel shortly after Hamas’s October 7 attack that triggered the ongoing war in the Gaza Strip, in what the Iran-backed Lebanese movement says is in support of its allied Palestinian group. Did Jr NTR Work With Real Cheetahs On RRR? Actor Answers On The Great Indian Kapil Show

Kapil Sharma and his team have already stolen our hearts with just the first episode with the Jigra team and they aren't slowing down anytime soon. Their mission to transform our Saturdays into Funnyaars is well underway and the latest episode of The Great Indian Kapil Show promises even more laughs. This time, the show had an exciting lineup with the cast of the upcoming movie Devara: Part 1, including Jr NTR, Janhvi Kapoor and Saif Ali Khan. Naturally, with Jr NTR on the stage, questions were bound to pop up about his jaw-dropping performance in the blockbuster film RRR. Kapil, known for his witty banter, couldn't resist asking Jr NTR about one of the most talked-about scenes from RRR. This was, of course, Bheem's electrifying entry scene, where he fearlessly appears alongside a range of wild animals. The scene left audiences in awe, but it also left some fans a bit confused—and that's where the hilarious part comes in. As Jr NTR recalled, many fans seemed genuinely baffled about how he managed to pull off such an intense scene with animals like cheetahs, bears, and a lion. Kapil asked him what the experience was like. That's when Jr NTR shared the amusing story of how people actually believed he had worked with real animals during the shoot. Jr NTR explained with a laugh, "Log sochrahe the, kivojhoh Bheemka entry tha nah, with those Cheetas, Bhalus and Sher was real. So people were actually thinking, kimein actually andar animals kesaathbaithahuatha. Log mujhe puchrahe the ki, kaise baith gaye aap?" Phir maine bola year, ye toh pura VFX hain. Aur wo bole, 'Arrenahi, yeh VFX nahin hain sir, yehaapsachi main baith gaye hain!'

Tohmujhe logo ko explain karnekeliye, puri R.R.R ki movie sunanipadi (People thought Bheem's entry, with the Cheetahs, Bears, and Lion, was real. They really believed I was sitting there among these wild animals. They kept asking, 'How did you manage that?' I would reply, 'That was all VFX.' But they would insist, 'No, sir, that couldn't be VFX, you must have been there for real!' To explain the confusion, I would end up narrating the entire R.R.R story to them!). "While the actor might effortlessly take on larger-than-life roles on screen, he made it clear that sitting next to real-life tigers, cheetahs, and bears would have been too much—even for him!

Jawan Actor Priya Mani On Women's Safety: 'You Draw A Line And I Don't Think Anybody Can Cross...'

Actress Priya Mani, who made a stunning appearance at the IIFA 2024, shared her strong opinion on women's safety and the importance of creating a secure environment. Although she agrees that everyone deserves the freedom to travel and do activities independently, at the same time, she also believes that women should consider taking someone they trust. Sharing her own experiences, the actress reveals she would often take her mother to events for comfort and safety. Priya firmly believes that personal boundaries must be respected and that no one should overstep those limits. On the other hand, she praised her Jawan co-star Shah Rukh Khan, by calling him the sweetest for the kind way he treats everyone around him. She also recalled a memorable moment they shared while filming the movie. Speaking about women safety with The Indian Express during the red carpet, the actress said, "As much as possible, try to make it a safer environment for women. Though it is becoming, I'm not going to deny that there are a lot of places and probably it is not as safe. Probably have extra security or have somebody from your home, a company maybe that would make it slightly safer. I know there'll be a lot of people who deny the fact that, 'We are independent, we want to travel alone, we want to do everything on our own,' I get it but then you see what the result is also happening right." "So, I would just say have somebody with you, I think it always works because I always had my mother accompanying me throughout my life. After a while I just told her to stay at home and I would manage everything on my own. Apart from that for me the way you conduct yourself, you draw a line and I don't think anybody can cross it," Priya Mani added. Priya Mani also admired Shah Rukh Khan's kind and humble nature. She mentioned how wonderful it is to work with such a talented actor who treats everyone with respect and warmth. The Family Man actress feels grateful to be part of the film and recalled her first day on set when they were filming a scene in the metro. During the time, the production team announced that SRK wanted to meet everyone and she was the first cast member to meet him. When she approached him, the superstar welcomed her with a big, warm hug. He thanked her for being part of the movie, which left her feeling appreciated and valued, she told India Today.

Anupam Kher, Boman Irani's Khosla Ka Ghosla To Re-Release In Theatres On October 18

After the re-release of films such as Laila Majnu, Rockstar, Rehnaa Hai Terre Dil Mein, Veer-Zaara and Tumbbad, the comedy-drama film Khosla Ka Ghosla directed by Dibakar Banerjee in 2006 is set to return to the theatres on October 18. Khosla Ka Ghosla has achieved cult status over the years with its realistic humour and satire. The film is counted among the most notable family dramas in the history of Bollywood with its dialogues and scenes becoming content for comedians and memes to the day. KKG was led by Anupam Kher, Boman Irani, Parvin Dabas, Vinay Pathak, Ranvir Shorey and Tara Sharma in lead roles. The story revolved around a middle-aged man played by Anupam Kher whose dreams of constructing a family home are dashed after his land is illegally occupied by property thug Khurana. The latter half showcased the family's scheme to regain the land. It was creatively produced by Jaideep Sahni who also took on the role of writer for the film. Additionally, it was produced by Tandav Film Entertainment Pvt Ltd. Anupam Kher, expressing his excitement for the re-release, said in a statement, "It is such a great feeling to know KKG is releasing again. It has achieved the status of a cult film. Wherever I go, people talk about Khoslaka Ghosla, and its lines are used as memes. I am delighted that it's being re-released and that the audience will enjoy it all over again," as quoted by Bollywood Hungama.

Ranvir Shorey, whose role was widely appreciated in the film also shared his feelings, "I am thrilled that Khoslaka Ghosla is getting a re-release almost 18 years after it was first released. I remember that the first time it was released was a difficult task for the producers because it was not a mainstream project, and getting a release was very tough. This time, when it is being released, the film is preceded by its reputation, so it is an exciting time." Raaj Hiremath, Director at Tandav Film Entertainment Pvt Ltd added, "Khosla Ka Ghosla is back again in theatres due to demand from the public! The film KKG had the highest viewership on television a few years ago..! We want screen lovers to now view it with their Families & Friends."

The Buckingham Murders Movie Review:

Kareena Kapoor Khan shines in this gripping murder mystery smudged in communal tension, revenge and more Kareena Kapoor Khan's filmography has witnessed a drastic change over the years. The actress is now choosing characters that help her showcase her talent in the best form. Veere Di Wedding, Good Newz, Jaane Jaan are some of the examples. Now, the actress has donned the hat of a producer. She has joined hands with Hansal Mehta and Ekta Kapoor for The Buckingham Murders. The movie has been making a lot of noise as it received a standing ovation at BFI London Film Festival. It was also showcased at the Mumbai Film Festival. The Buckingham Murders is releasing in theatres on September 13 and here's the full review of the film.

Where To Watch: Theatres
Cast: Kareena Kapoor Khan, Ranveer Brar, Keith Allen, Rukku Nahar and more
Director: Hansal Mehta
Rating: 4 out of 5 Star Rating
What is it about?
The Buckingham Murders is about a detective named Jasmeet Bamra (Jass) played by Kareena Kapoor Khan taking a transfer to a town named Wycombe in Buckinghamshire, UK after her son is shot dead by a lunatic. Dealing with her own grief, she moves base in order to forget about the loss. However, her first case in Wycombe is that of a missing Sikh child who is then found to be dead in an abandoned car in a park. The investigation begins and the main suspect is a boy named Saqib who is actually the son of dead boy's father's ex-business partner. There is a testimony to make everyone believe that Saqib is the killer, however, Jass sees through the lie and then gets deep into the investigation to find out the real truth. Amidst all of this, there is a twist of revenge, communal tensions, LGBTQ issues and much more. What's hot?

The whodunit murder mysteries always grab attention especially when the execution is done well. The Buckingham Murders is one of them. Hansal Mehta is an ace storyteller and once again, he has created a gripping film that has many layers to captivate the attention of the audience. It showcases the communal tension between communities over a cricket match and then a murder. It also touches upon the issues faced by the LGBTQ community and drug abuse among teenagers. Many parallel stories including an extra marital affair are intertwined with one murder that puts the small, sleepy town in a state of shock. Kareena Kapoor Khan as Jass has sure put forth a nuanced act of a grieving mother who is finding it difficult to let go. Sadness, grief, and frustration build inside is rightly emotive. It won't be wrong to say that Kareena's performance in The Buckingham Murders is among the best so far. The supporting cast like Ranveer Brar and others have done a decent job. The story is the hero in the detective drama and it will keep you at the edge of your seat. The climax does come as a shocker. There is an unnerving silence that flows through every scene leaving the audience with a disturbing feeling; with the background score adding the chills. Given that it is a murder mystery, that serves right to the genre. What's not?

The Buckingham Murders makes for an interesting watch but we wish the built up to the suspense and climax was a little more crisper. It is worth watching it in the theatres this Friday.
